MEANS FAST SERVICE, FREQUENT SAILING

SAN FRANCISCO'S preeminence as a Crossroad of World Commerce makes it a Mecca for many whose travels are linked with international trade. Such visitors, when taken on a fact-seeking tour of the capacious harbor, frequently voice the inquiry

WHY is San Francisco so consistently the preferred Port of entry and exit for waterborne commerce that moves via the West coast?

There are two major reasons for shippers' preference for San Francisco. They are:

1 The Port is noted for frequency of ship sailing to, and arrivals from, the principal world trade ports. During 1951 an average of one ship every hour — 24 each day — passed through San Francisco's Golden Gate bound to or from all parts of the globe. This frequency of ship service saves time and money for sellers and buyers, i. e. WORLD TRADERS.

2 The Port of San Francisco is noted for superior accommodations for ships (18 miles of berthing space), and modern cargo-handling facilities and equipment. Packaged goods are palletized. Power jitneys are both fork-lift and hydraulic side clamps. Bulk facilities for grain (

EXPLANATION OF STATISTICS

"Foreign Trade through San Francisco Customs District" includes waterborne foreign trade laden or unladen in the Customs District. The San Francisco Customs District includes all of that part of California north of the northern boundaries of San Luis Obispo, Kern and San Bernardino Counties and the States of Nevada and Utah. Nearly all of the waterborne foreign trade passes through ports on San Francisco Bay or on waterways tributary to the Bay. Country information is for foreign port of lading or unlading and is not necessarily the country of final destination or origin.

Foreign goods as well as domestic goods and warehouse entries as well as consumption entries are included in general export and import data. Goods moving intransit through San Francisco Customs District from one foreign country to another that were not entered as imports are not included in regular export or import data but are in a separate section. (See below) Foreign goods coming into Foreign Trade Zone No. 3 are not included in import statistics until such time as a customs entry may be made.

The basic sources of this report are the Shipper's Export Declaration and the import entries, statistical copies of which are forwarded to the Bureau of the Census. "Foreign Trade through San Francisco Customs District" is prepared from information supplied by the Bureau of Census from the declarations and entries.

Shipments on Department of Defense operated vessels do not require export declarations so are not included in "Foreign Trade through San Francisco Customs District." This class of government controlled shipments includes not only shipments on military transports but also shipments on commercial vessels by the Department of Defense under time, voyage or space charter arrangements. Starting in 1949 certain goods of military significance, such as military vehicles, or ordnance items and military vessels and aircraft, were combined in special categories and reported only as "special category". For 1951 no information on special category type goods (even though exported "commercially") has been made public by the Bureau of Census separately by customs district, so this report excludes entirely such items. United States Government foreign aid handled through private trading channels (except "special category") is included in the regular export data.

In addition to foreign trade, this report includes information on trade with the Territory of Hawaii (dry cargo only). Data on trade with the other territories is not available.

Foreign Exports (or Re-exports) and Intransit Trade

Foreign exports are exports of foreign merchandise for which a customs entry has been filed and which is exported in the same form in which it was imported. Foreign goods which are processed or manufactured and are exported are classified as domestic goods. Re-exports are listed separately in this report but they are a subdivision of general exports and not an addition to them.

The intransit trade includes merchandise moving through the United States from one foreign country to another which is not entered as an import. This includes goods transferred from one vessel to another at the port and also merchandise stored or moving through the United States under customs supervision. Intransit trade is listed in a separate section and is an addition to regular exports and imports.
